Parrish Ritchie has been blogging at Life with the Crust Cut Off for six years. Her recipes have been featured on sites including Womanâ™s Day, Country Living, and Buzzfeed. She lives in Norfolk, VA.

This is one of the most practical cookbooks I own. Being a single mom with two kids who are both active in sports leaves me constantly running from one practice/game to the next. Not to mention working a full time job! Having simple, quick recipes that I not only have time to cook but that the kids will actually enjoy is a blessing. The Chicken Cesar Salad Subs are amazing! Trying the One-Pot Chicken Alfredo Mac and Cheese next and the Saisage Gravy Biscuit Cups this weekend!!! I have no doubt they will be a hit as well.

There are some things that make life worth living. The food in this book is several of those things!!!

I received a copy of this book to review and had a hard time choosing which recipe to choose first! As a busy mom who desperately needs quick, easy meals that my kids will love, this book is a lifesaver. The instructions are clear and easy to follow. So many of them reminded me of comforting recipes from my childhood. The hot ham & cheese sandwiches are on my menu for next week!

Got my book yesterday! Found it at Sam's Club! Was so excited to see it as I've been following Parrish's website for a long time and everything she makes is delicious. Even more excited because the pictures are just stunning and the book is huge. Told the kids we could choose a few things to make this weekend. Can't wait, I know it will be wonderful!

What a terrific book! This will definitely be a go-to source for when I need a quick and creative meal, or any meal for that matter! I enjoy cooking from scratch often, but always like to have easy recipes like the ones included in this cookbook. There is a ton of variety to all of the meals, so if someone can't find a recipe they like, that seems impossible! Great recipes and stories to go with them.

Parrish's recipes allow for good food done quickly. These are perfect for my families busy lifestyle. There are also great recipes for entertaining!

I have been following Parrish's blog for years and I have tried a LOT of her recipes, so I'm thrilled she decided to create a cookbook. It doesn't move from my countertop. My family are HUGE fans of the "enchilada stuffed shells!" My husband would eat them every day if I made it every day. I have even made a batch for my husband to take into his squadron. The sailors devoured them and have asked me to make them again! Oh, and the "cheesy Swiss and bacon dip?" Delicious! There is something for everyone.

Love this book!! The recipes are easy and don't take forever to prep or make. I definitely would recommend to anyone!
