Mitchell Duneier is an award-winning urban ethnographer at Princeton University and the City University of New York Graduate Center. He is most famous for his book Sidewalk, which won the Los Angeles Times Book Prize. Duneier's research focuses on the urban poor and other groups in the margins of society. Richard P. Appelbaum, the MacArthur chair of Global Studies at the University of California, Santa Barbara, has won several awards for his teaching and works mainly on globalization and labor issues. Appelbaum is the coauthor of Behind the Label. Deborah Carr is a demographer and an active teacher at Rutgers University, where she regularly teaches the intro course. Her work focuses on sociology of the life course, aging, social psychology, and gender. Carr's latest book, Worried Sick: How Stress Hurts Us and How to Bounce Back, looks at how stress gets under our skin, makes us sick, and how and why people cope with stress differently.

This is such a well written text book that I learned a ton from.

It got it as a rental for a class. I liked the book. Liberal leaning.

Easy to understand the material and I got an A in my college class, so it definitely helped.

Required book for class.

good price to rent

Great book with awesome features to study with as far as ebooks are concerned. The content was so amazing, I almost felt tempted to purchase it just to have for myself.

It comes in handy and they pick it back up without paying.

Just what I needed for class. Wish it was in audio format.
