Caroline Courtauld is a writer, published photographer, and documentary film producer and researcher. Her publications include books on Burma, Hong Kong and China. From 1992 to 1997 she worked with Jonathan Dimbleby and Francis Gerard on a BBC documentary project about Hong Kong in the period up to its transfer of sovereignty to China. Her involvement in a television documentary on the history of Hong Kong led to another book, The Hong Kong Story, which was published by Oxford University Press in June 1997.

Hard to find a map of Yangon from this far away so this may be the best you'll get right now without going to Yangon. The format of this foldout map is BIG. The fact that the border of the Yangon side is devoted to pictures of architecturally significant buildings in the city adds to the bulkiness of this map. The paper is not laminated or very durable: I do not think that this map will hold up even for limited unfolding and refolding before it rips. I wish it were similar to one of the Borch maps (of Bangkok, Hamburg, Barcelona, etc) that are very durable, and highlight tourism destinations and sites ON THE MAP itself.
